How to learn a language in seven days

- ❶ Do you really have to travel to another country to learn a new language? What's possible in a week if you learn a language at home? Two brothers, Pedro and Carlos Fernandez, decided to learn English in one week studying eight hours a day. Here are the seven things that the brothers learned from their experience.

Know why you want to learn the language

- ❷ The brothers wanted the challenge of learning a language in a week. Then they had to choose the language to learn. They chose English because they wanted to get to know the English-speaking community in their town.

[ - 14 - ]

- ❸ The brothers decorated their apartment with sticky notes. They used dictionaries and labelled everything with the English name. It was impossible to carry out any task, make a coffee or turn the light switch off, without first seeing at least three different words related to this action.

[ - 15 - ]

- ❹ The brothers made continuous little tests for each other. When one brother asked the question "How do you say that?" the other brother often was able to answer. At the end of the week the brothers used English in their everyday conversations, asking one another if they wanted tea or coffee, if they were ready to cook dinner or when they were going to leave the house the next day.

[ - X - ]

- ❺ Pedro and Carlos created some small challenges for themselves in the week. These challenges forced them to prepare vocabulary to meet the challenge. On the first day, for example, a Canadian friend visited them, greeted them in English and complimented them on how quickly they had learnt their first words and phrases.

[ - 16 - ]

- ❻ The brothers enjoyed the week. They surrounded themselves with the food, the music and the films of the USA so that when they were relaxing they were also learning. They bought lots of American snacks and read the information on the labels about the ingredients and the special offers.

[ - 17 - ]

- ❼ The brothers made frequent comparisons between the languages they understand and English. This helped them to remember words.

Try new ways of learning

- ❽ The brothers spent a lot of time reading books and on their computers doing exercises. At other times they searched for English speaking radio stations and read reports on American football games on the web. They listened to songs while they cooked English food. They even talked to themselves!

Vote for your favourite Shakespeare play!

Part 1

To celebrate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's death, we're asking you which Shakespeare play you would most like to see performed.

We have selected ten of Shakespeare's most popular plays for you to choose from – you might not know all of them but you can find out more below. Vote for your favourite play. We will announce the top three plays on Monday 14 March – the first day of Shakespeare Week.

From 1.30pm on this day, schools will be able to watch a special tour of the house where Shakespeare was born. After this, the top three plays will be announced and performed live from the Globe Theatre.

Don't worry if your school misses it on the day. You will be able to see these recordings later on the Shakespeare Week website at shakespeareweek.org.uk.
