

This is a very appropriate and topical research question. The introduction shows engagement but should be written in a more academic, impersonal style. It demonstrates good engagement with the subject and uses relevant terminology but the references should be sourced. Heavy reliance on one source should be avoided.

The “two state” proposal, since it is the focus of the essay, needs more careful analysis, not just a mention in the concluding paragraph. The author uses peace and conflict theory to reasonable effect but with greater knowledge it should be used diagnostically and analytically in making recommendations for how the conflict might be transformed. The early explanation of an imbalance in power should be addressed in the concluding stages of the essay.